Cases dealing with the right to life (Article 2)

Bulgarian Helsinki Committee v. Bulgaria

21.07.2016

The case concerned the death of two children with mental disabilities in special homes in which they had been placed, and the request submitted to the Court by an association specialising in human rights protection to grant it legal standing either as an indirect victim or as the representative of the two deceased adolescents.

Applications declared inadmissible as incompatible ratione personae

Dimitrov and Others v. Bulgaria

01.07.2014

The case concerned the death of a suspect in drug trafficking and pimping during a police operation.

Violation of Article 2

Violation of Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment)

No violation of Article 6 § 1 (right to a fair trial/hearing)

Nencheva and Others v. Bulgaria

18.06.2013

Fifteen children and young adults died between 15 December 1996 and 14 March 1997 in a home for physically and mentally disabled young people in the village of Dzhurkovo, from the effects of cold and shortages of food, medicines and basic necessities. The manager of the home, observing the problems, had tried without success on several occasions to alert all the public institutions which had direct responsibility for funding the home and which could have been expected to act. The Court found a violation of Article 2 in that the authorities had failed in their duty to protect the lives of the vulnerable children placed in their care from a serious and immediate threat. The authorities had also failed to conduct an effective official investigation into the deaths, occurring in highly exceptional circumstances.

Cases dealing with inhuman and/or degrading treatment (article 3)

Popovi v. Bulgaria

09.06.2016

The case concerned the arrest of Mr Popov, former secretary general of the Ministry of Finance, during a police operation that received extensive media coverage.

Violation of Article 8

For the case of Petrov and Ivanova

Violation of Article 3

Violation and no violation of Article 6 § 2

Violation of Article 13 taken in conjunction with Articles 3 and 6 § 2

S.Z. v. Bulgaria (no. 29263/12)

03.03.2015

The case concerns criminal proceedings brought against individuals responsible for the illegal confinement and rape of the applicant.

Violation of Article 3 on account of the shortcomings in the investigation carried out into the illegal confinement and rape of the applicant, having regard in particular to the excessive delays in the criminal proceedings and the lack of investigation into certain aspects of the offences.

The Court observed that it had already, in over 45 judgments against Bulgaria, found that the authorities had failed to comply with their obligation to carry out an effective investigation and considered that these recurrent shortcomings disclosed the existence of a systemic problem. It considered that it was incumbent on Bulgaria, in cooperation with the Committee of Ministers, to decide which general measures were required in practical terms to prevent other similar violations of the Convention in the future.

Abdu v. Bulgaria

11.03.2014

The applicant in this case complained of the authorities' failure to conduct an investigation into the potentially racist nature of an attack on him.

Violation of Article 3 taken alone and in conjunction with Article 14 (prohibition of discrimination)

Gutsanovi v. Bulgaria

15.10.2013

The case concerned a police operation carried out at the home of Mr Gutsanov, an influential politician, leading to his arrest.

Violation of Article 3

Violation of Article 5 § 3 (right to liberty and security) on account of the unjustified length of detention

Violation of Article 5 § 3 (right to liberty and security) regarding Mr Gutsanov's right to be brought promptly before a judge

Violation of Article 5 § 5 (right to compensation)

Violation of Article 6 § 2 (presumption of innocence) regarding the remarks made by the Prime Minister and the regional public prosecutor

Cases concerning conditions of detention in prisons and pre-trial detention facilities

Neshkov and Others v. Bulgaria

27.01.2015 (pilot judgment)¹

Violation of Article 3

Violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy)

The applicants' cases, as well as many other similar cases – the Court having already decided more than 20 cases leading to 25 violations of the Convention and there being approximately 40 more applications concerning detention conditions in Bulgaria currently pending before the Court – highlight a systemic problem within the Bulgarian prison system, justifying a pilot-judgment procedure because of the serious and persistent nature of the problems identified.

Harakchiev and Tolumov v. Bulgaria

08.07.2014

Violation of Article 3 as concerned the regime and conditions of Mr Harakchiev's and Mr Tolumov's detention

Violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) as concerned the lack of effective domestic remedies in respect of the conditions of Mr Harakchiev's and Mr Tolumov's detention

Violation of Article 3, as concerned Mr Harakchiev's inability to obtain a reduction of his sentence of life imprisonment without commutation from the time when it became final

Jordan Petrov v. Bulgaria

24.01.2012

Violation of Article 3 in respect of ill-treatment by the police and prison guards, the lack of effective investigation into those events and the conditions of detention at Varna Prison

No violation of Article 3 in respect of the alleged lack of medical care

Violation of Article 6 § 1 (right to a fair trial) in respect of the use of confessions obtained in breach of Article 3

¹ The pilot judgment procedure was developed as a technique of identifying structural problems underlying repetitive cases against many countries and imposing an obligation on member States to address those problems. Where the Court receives several applications that share a root cause, it can select one or more for priority treatment under the pilot procedure. In a pilot judgment, the Court's task is not only to decide whether a violation of the Convention occurred in the specific case but also to identify the systemic problem and to give the Government clear indications of the type of remedial measures needed to resolve it.

Violation of Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life) in respect of the monitoring of the applicant's correspondence with his lawyer

Violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) in respect of the poor conditions of detention at Varna Prison

Violation of Article 6 § 1

Two violations of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1

Excessively long court proceedings

Finger v. Bulgaria

Dimitrov and Hamanov v. Bulgaria²

10.05.2011

First pilot judgments concerning Bulgaria in which the Court has asked the Government to introduce remedies to deal with unreasonably long criminal proceedings and, more importantly, a compensatory remedy in respect of unreasonably long criminal, civil and administrative proceedings. Those remedies must conform to the Court's principles and become available within 12 months from the date on which the judgments become final.

A violation of Article 6 § 1

A violation of Article 13 \(right to an effective remedy\)

Cases regarding effectiveness of remedies in respect of length of proceedings, lodged following the pilot judgments in Dimitrov and Hamanov v. Bulgaria and Finger v. Bulgaria:

Valcheva and Abrashev v. Bulgaria
Balakchiev and Others v. Bulgaria

Declared inadmissible on 18.06.2013

These cases concerned the applicants' complaints about unreasonable length of proceedings. More importantly, they also concerned the effectiveness of two new administrative and judicial compensatory remedies introduced by the Bulgarian authorities following two pilot judgments³. These remedies were intended to enable victims of unreasonably lengthy proceedings, including people who had already lodged an application with the Court in this regard, to obtain monetary compensation.

² Systemic problem in Bulgarian's justice system, namely, the absence of effective legal remedies for excessive length of civil, administrative and criminal proceedings.

³ Judgments Finger v. Bulgaria and Dimitrov and Hamanov v. Bulgaria of 10 May 2011

Although no long-term practice had been established in this domain, the Court considered that it could not be assumed at this current stage that the Bulgarian authorities and courts applying the new remedies provisions of the Acts would not give proper effect to them. Therefore, the new remedies could be regarded as effective. Moreover, it considered that mere doubts about the effective functioning of a newly created statutory remedy did not dispense the applicants from having recourse to it. Since the applicants had not apparently brought such proceedings and no special circumstances absolved them from doing so, their complaints were rejected for non-exhaustion of domestic remedies.
