Decision to deport the applicant to Tunisia, where he claimed to have been sentenced in his absence for terrorism.

Violation of Article 3 if the deportation went ahead

Enea v. Italy

17.09.2009

Applicant had been subjected to a special prison regime (under section 41 bis § 2 of the Prison Administration Act) then placed in a high supervision unit.

No violation of Article 3

Violation of Article 6 § 1 \(right to a fair trial\) concerning his right to a court during the period of the special regime

No violation of Article 6 § 1 as regards his right to a court during his placement in the high supervision unit

Violation of Article 8 \(right to respect for correspondence\)

Hirsi Jamaa and Others v. Italy

23.02.2012

The case concerned Somalian and Eritrean migrants travelling from Libya who had been intercepted at sea by the Italian authorities and sent back to Libya.

Violations of Article 3 because the applicants had been exposed to the risk of ill-treatment in Libya and of repatriation to Somalia or Eritrea

Violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 \(prohibition of collective expulsions\)

Violation of Article 13 \(right to an effective remedy\) taken in conjunction with Article 3 because the applicants had been unable to lodge their complaints with a competent authority and to obtain a thorough and rigorous assessment of their requests before the removal measure was enforced

Violation of Article 13 taken in conjunction with Article 4 of Protocol No.4 because the remedy under the criminal law against the

military personnel on board the ship did not satisfy the criterion of suspensive effect

The Court found that the applicants had fallen within the jurisdiction of Italy for the purposes of Article 1 of the Convention because they had been under the continuous and exclusive control of the Italian authorities.

Cases dealing with Article 6

Right to a fair hearing/trial

Perna v. Italy

06.05.2003

Journalist convicted of aggravated defamation for publishing an article accusing the Chief Public Prosecutor of Palermo (G. Caselli) of abuse of authority, without attempting to prove the veracity of his allegations.

No violation of Articles 6 or 10 \(freedom of expression\)

Sejdivic v. Italy

01.03.2006

Applicant convicted in his absence without having had the opportunity to present his defence.

Violation of Article 6

Scoppola v. Italy \(no. 2\)

17.09.2009

Question whether, in convicting the applicant for murder according to the summary procedure, the Italian courts should have applied the most lenient criminal-law provision out of all those in force in the period between the commission of the offence and the final judgment.

Violation of Articles 6 and 7 \(no punishment without law\)

Right to a fair trial within a reasonable time

Scordino v. Italy \(no. 1\)

29.03.2006

Effectiveness of the "Pinto Act", which introduced the possibility of lodging a complaint with the Italian courts in respect of excessively long proceedings. The case also concerned the right to receive compensation for expropriation.

Violation of Article 6 § 1 and Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 \(protection of property\)

Cases on Article 7
(no punishment without law)

G.I.E.M. S.r.l. and Others v. Italy

28.06.2018

The cases concerned the confiscation of land as provided for by domestic legislation in the event of unlawful site development. The applicants alleged that this confiscation had an insufficient legal basis.

Violation of Article 7 (no punishment without law) in respect of all the applicant companies

No violation of Article 7 in respect of the applicant Mr Gironda

Violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property) in respect of all the applicants

Violation of Article 6 § 2 (right to be presumed innocent) in respect of Mr Gironda

The Court also said that it did not need to decide whether there had been a violation of Article 6 § 1 in respect of the company G.I.E.M. S.r.l. or of Article 13 in respect of the companies G.I.E.M. S.r.l. and Falgest S.r.l.

Finally the Court decided that the question of the application of Article 41 (just satisfaction) was not ready for decision and should thus be reserved in its entirety.

Berlusconi v. Italy

27.11.2018

The case concerns the former Prime Minister of Italy, Mr Silvio Berlusconi.

Mr Berlusconi complained in particular that the application of Legislative Decree no. 235/2012, resulting in the invalidation of his election by the Senate after he had been disqualified from standing for election on account of his conviction for tax fraud, had breached Article 7 (no punishment without law) of the Convention, Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 (right to free elections) to the Convention and Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention.

In July 2018, after informing the Court that the applicant no longer intended to pursue his application and asked for it to be struck out of the list of cases, the Court concluded that no special circumstances relating to respect for human rights required it to continue the examination of the application in accordance with Article 37 § 1 and it decided to strike the case out of the list.

Cases concerning the right to respect for private and family life (Article 8)

Guerra and Others v. Italy

19.02.1998

The Italian authorities had not provided the applicants with sufficient information about the risks and about what to do in the case of an accident in a chemical factory with a "high risk" classification.

Violation of Article 8

Parrillo v. Italy

27.08.2015

The case concerned a ban under Italian Law no. 40/2004, preventing Ms Parrillo from donating to scientific research embryos obtained from an in vitro fertilisation which were not destined for a pregnancy.

No violation of Article 8

Paradiso and Campanelli v. Italy

24.01.2017

The case concerned the placement in social-service care of a nine-month-old child who had been born in Russia following a gestational surrogacy contract, entered into with a Russian woman by an Italian couple who had no biological relationship with the child.

No violation of Article 8

Other noteworthy cases, judgments delivered

Grand Chamber

Maestri v. Italy

17.02.2004

Disciplinary proceedings against a judge for having been a member of a Masonic lodge.

Violation of Article 11 (freedom of assembly and association)

Guiso Gallisay v. Italy

22.12.2009 (judgment on just satisfaction)

Question of the criteria for calculation of just satisfaction in constructive expropriation cases.

The Court changed its criteria and now no longer takes into account the value of public works constructed on expropriated land.

Lautsi v. Italy

18.03.2011

The case concerned the presence of crucifixes in State-school classrooms in Italy.

No violation of Article 2 of Protocol No. 1 \(right to education\).

The Court held in particular that the question of religious symbols in classrooms was, in principle, a matter falling within the margin of appreciation of the State - particularly as there was no European consensus as regards that question - provided that decisions in that area did not lead to a form of indoctrination. The fact that crucifixes in State-school classrooms in Italy conferred on the country's majority religion predominant visibility in the school environment was not in itself sufficient to denote a process of indoctrination. Moreover, the presence of crucifixes was not associated with compulsory teaching about Christianity; and there was nothing to suggest that the authorities were intolerant of pupils who believed in other religions, were non-believers or who held non-religious philosophical convictions. Lastly, Ms Lautsi had retained her right as a parent to enlighten and advise her children and to guide them on a path in line with her own philosophical convictions.

Giuliani and Gaggio v. Italy

24.03.2011

Death of demonstrator in clashes between anti-globalisation protesters and law-enforcement officers during 2001 G8 summit in Genoa.

No violation of Article 2 \(right to life\) concerning four different complaints: use of lethal force; legislative framework governing the use of lethal force / weapons issued to the law-enforcement agencies at the G8; organisation of the policing operations at the G8; alleged lack of an effective investigation.

No violation of Article 13 \(right to an effective remedy\). No violation of Article 38 \(adversarial examination of the case\).

Scoppola v. Italy (n° 3)

22.05.2012

The case concerned the applicant's disenfranchisement following his criminal conviction.

No violation of Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 \(right to free elections\)

The Court found that the disenfranchisement of convicted prisoners provided for under Italian law was not like the general, automatic, indiscriminate measure that led it to find a violation of Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 in the Hirst \(no. 2\) v. the United Kingdom case. Italian law took care to adapt the measure to the particular circumstances of a case, particularly the length of the sentence.

Centro Europa 7 S.R.L. v. Italy

07.06.2012

The case concerned an Italian TV company's inability to broadcast, despite having a broadcasting licence, because no television frequencies were allocated to it.

Violation of Article 10 \(freedom of expression and information\)

Violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 \(protection of property\)

Khlaifia and Others v. Italy

15.12.2016

The case concerned the holding, in a reception centre on the island of Lampedusa then on ships in Palermo harbour (Sicily), of irregular migrants who arrived in Italy in 2011 following the "Arab Spring" events in their country, and their subsequent removal to Tunisia.

Violation of Article 5 § 1 \(right to liberty and security\)

Violation of Article 5 § 2 \(right to be informed promptly of the reasons for deprivation of liberty\)

Violation of Article 5 § 4 \(right to a speedy decision on the lawfulness of detention\)

No violation of Article 3 \(prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment\) as regards the conditions in the Lampedusa reception centre

No violation of Article 3 as regards the conditions on the ships in Palermo harbour

No violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 to the Convention \(prohibition of collective expulsion of aliens\)

Violation of Article 13 \(right to an effective remedy\) taken together with Article 3

No violation of Article 13 taken together with Article 4 of Protocol No. 4

de Tommaso v. Italy

23.02.2017

The case concerned preventive measures imposed for a duration of two years on the applicant, who complained of a violation of Article 5 (right to liberty and security),

Article 6 § 1 (right to a fair hearing) and Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention and Article 2 of Protocol No. 4 (freedom of movement) on the Convention.

Violation of Article 2 of Protocol No. 4 on account of the lack of foreseeability of the relevant Act

Violation of Article 6 § 1 on account of the lack of a public hearing in the Bari District Court and Court of Appeal

No violation of Article 6 § 1

No violation of Article 13

Noteworthy cases, judgments delivered

Chamber

Cases concerning the right to life (Article 2)

Violation of Article 2

G.N. and Others v. Italy \(no. 43134/05\)

01.12.2009

Difference in treatment among persons infected by transfusion or administration of blood products.

Maiorano and Others v. Italy

15.12.2009

Applicants' relative was brutally murdered by a repeat offender who had been granted day release.

The Court found that the judicial authorities had been negligent, not having taken due account of the criminal's dangerousness.

Alikaj and Others v. Italy

29.03.2011

Death of a young man who was shot by a police officer when he was being pursued by the police after resisting arrest.

Talpis v. Italy

02.03.2017

The application concerned, in particular, the alleged failure by the Respondent State to provide protection and support to the applicant following violence inflicted by her husband, which ended with the murder of the applicant's son and the attempted murder of the applicant.

Violations of Article 2

No violation of Article 2

Fabris and Parziale v. Italy

19.03.2020

The case concerned the death of a relative of the applicants while in custody in Venice Prison. Mr Fabris was the uncle and Ms Parziale a cousin of the deceased, who, according to an expert assessment, had died after deliberately inhaling gas from canisters provided to prisoners for cooking.

Application inadmissible

Verri v. Italy

19.12.2019

The case concerns the alleged State's failure to protect the life of a man killed by a fugitive and the lack of an effective investigation.

Complaint rejected as manifestly ill-founded.

Cases concerning prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment (Article 3)

Violation of Article 3

Marcello Viola v. Italy \(no. 2\)

13.06.2019

The case concerned an irreducible sentence of life imprisonment.

Violation of Article 3

Ben Khemais v. Italy

24.02.2009

Deportation of a Tunisian national suspected of being involved in Islamist terrorism despite the Court's indication to the Italian Government (under Rule 39 of the Rules of Court) that the order should be stayed pending its decision on the merits.

Sulejmanovic v. Italy

16.07.2009

The case concerned prison overcrowding.

Toumi v. Italy

05.04.2011

Removal of a terrorist from Italy to Tunisia notwithstanding the Court's indications and the risk of ill-treatment (see also Grand Chamber judgment Saadi v. Italy).

Torregiani and Others v. Italy

08.01.2013

The case concerned overcrowding in prisons in Italy.

The Court decided to apply the pilot-judgment procedure in view of the growing number of persons potentially concerned in Italy and of the judgments finding a violation liable to result from the applications in question.

Following up on Torregiani case, the Court received more than 4,200 similar applications which were declared inadmissible or struck out.

Contrada (No. 2) v. Italy

11.02.2014

The case concerned the authorities' repeated refusal of a prisoner's requests for a stay of execution of his sentence or for the sentence to be converted to house arrest on account of his numerous health problems.

Cestaro v. Italy

07.04.2015

The case concerned events which occurred at the end of the G8 summit in Genoa in July 2001, in a school made available by the municipal authorities to be used as a night shelter by demonstrators. An anti-riot police unit entered the building around midnight to carry out a search, leading to acts of violence.

The Court found that there had been a violation of Article 3 of the Convention on account of ill-treatment sustained by Mr Cestaro and of inadequate criminal legislation concerning the punishment of acts of torture which was not an effective deterrent to prevent the repetition of such acts.

After emphasising the structural nature of the problem, the Court pointed out that, as regards the remedial measures to be taken, the State's positive obligations under Article 3 might include the duty to introduce a properly adapted legal framework, including, in particular, effective criminal-law provisions.

Nasr and Ghali v. Italy

23.02.2016

The case concerned an instance of extrajudicial transfer (or "extraordinary rendition"), namely the abduction by CIA agents, with the cooperation of Italian officials, of the Egyptian imam Abu Omar, who had been granted political asylum in Italy, and his subsequent transfer to Egypt, where he was held in secret for several months.

In the present case the Court held that the legitimate principle of "State secrecy" had clearly been applied by the Italian executive in order to ensure that those responsible did not have to answer for their actions. The investigation and trial had not led to the punishment of those responsible, who had therefore ultimately been granted impunity.

Bartesaghi Gallo and Others v. Italy

22.06.2017

The case concerned the ill-treatment to which 42 demonstrators were subjected by police officers inside a school, in the context of an anti-globalisation demonstration organised to coincide with the 27th summit of the eight major industrialised countries (G8).

Blair and Others v. Italy

Azzolina and Others v. Italy

26.10.2017

The cases concerned incidents following the G8 Summit in Genoa in 2001, when demonstrators were subjected to violence by law-enforcement officers while in detention. The applicants alleged that they had been subjected to torture and complained that the investigation by the domestic courts had been ineffective, in particular because the statute of limitations had been applied to virtually all the acts committed and because a number of those convicted had been granted a remission of their sentence.

Cirino and Renne v. Italy

26.10.2017

The case concerned the complaint by two detainees that in December 2004 they were ill-treated by prison officers of the Asti Correctional Facility, and that those responsible were not appropriately punished.

The Court held that the ill-treatment inflicted on the applicants – which had been deliberate and carried out in a premeditated and organised manner while they were in the custody of prison officers – had amounted to torture.

V.C. v. Italy \(no. 54227/14\)

01.02.2018

The case concerned a person who, as a minor suffering from alcohol and drug addiction, had been the victim of a child prostitution ring and gang rape. She complained that the Italian authorities had not taken all the necessary steps to protect her as a minor and the victim of a prostitution ring.

Provenzano v. Italy

25.10.2018

Mr Provenzano was arrested in 2006. He was subsequently convicted of numerous extremely serious offences, and sentenced to several life sentences.

Relying on Article 3, Mr Provenzano complained of inadequate medical care in prison and about the continuation of the special prison regime until his death, despite his ill health.

No violation of Article 3 in respect of the conditions of detention

Violation of Article 3 on account of the renewed application of the special prison regime on 23 March 2016

Knox v. Italy

24.01.2019

The case concerned proceedings leading to the conviction of Amanda Knox for malicious accusation. During a police interview on 6 November 2007 Ms Knox accused a pub manager of killing her flatmate. The man was subsequently found to be innocent and she was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for making a malicious accusation.

Cases concerning the right to liberty and security (Article 5)

Violation of Article 5

Seferovic v. Italy

08.02.2011

Detention pending deportation of a woman who had recently given birth to a child who died at the hospital, despite the fact that Italian law prohibited the deportation of a woman within six months of giving birth.

Gallardo Sanchez v. Italy

24.03.2015

The case concerned the excessive length of a Venezuelan national's detention in Italy with a view to his extradition to Greece.

Richmond Yaw and Others v. Italy

06.10.2016

The case concerned four Ghanaian nationals. They were placed in detention with a view to their removal from the country.

Rizzotto v. Italy

05.09.2019

The case concerned the lawfulness of a pre-trial detention order, and the procedural safeguards secured under Article 5 § 4 (right to speedy review of the lawfulness of detention) of the Convention.

Cases concerning Article 6

Right of access to a court

Violation of Article 6 § 1

Guadagnino v. Italy and France

18.01.2011

Italian courts refused to hear industrial disputes concerning an employee of the French school in Rome.

De Luca v. Italy and Pennino v. Italy

24.09.2013

The two cases concerned the impossibility for the applicants to have a final judgment enforced in order to recover money owed to them by a municipal authority which had become insolvent.

Casa di Cura Valle Fiorita S.r.l. v. Italy

13.12.2018

The case concerned the applicant company being unable to recover possession of a building in Rome that had been occupied since 2012, without any legal title, by a group of housing activists (movimento lotta per la casa).

Right to a fair trial

Violation of Article 6 § 1

Cordova v. Italy

30.01.2003

Applicant (former public prosecutor in Sicily) filed criminal complaints against a Senator and an MP, but their alleged offences were covered by parliamentary immunity.

C.G.I.L. and Cofferati v. Italy
(no. 46967/07)

24.02.2009

Inability, for a trade union and its General Secretary, to bring libel proceedings against an MP (parliamentary immunity).

Savino and Others v. Italy

28.04.2009

Question whether the Judicial Committee and Judicial Section for officials of the Chamber of Deputies were independent and impartial tribunals.

Lombardi Vallauri v. Italy

20.10.2009

Refusal by Milan Catholic University to employ a lecturer who was not approved by the Congregation for Catholic Education.

Maggio and Others v. Italy

31.05.2011

Re-adjustment of pensions of Italians who worked abroad.

Agrati and Others v. Italy

07.06.2011

The applicants were 125 Italian nationals who complained about the retrospective application of a new law to ongoing judicial proceedings, on the calculation of their length of service as civil servants.

Arras and Others v. Italy

14.02.2012

The case concerned legislative amendments which affected pending civil proceedings the applicants had brought concerning their pension adjustments. The applicants were pensioners and former employees of the Banco Di Napoli, a banking group which was originally public and was later privatised.

M.C. and Others v. Italy (no. 5376/11)

03.09.2013 – Pilot judgment¹

¹ Since 2004 and in response to the large number of cases deriving from systemic or structural problems in certain countries the Court has developed a pilot-judgment procedure. This consists in identifying in a single judgment systemic problems underlying a violation of the European Convention on Human Rights and indicating in that judgment the remedial measures required to resolve such situations. The pilot-judgment procedure is not only intended to facilitate effective implementation by respondent states of individual and

The case concerned the fact that it was impossible for 162 Italian nationals to obtain an annual adjustment of the supplementary part of a compensation allowance paid to them following accidental contamination as a result of blood transfusions or the administration of blood derivatives.

The Court held that the Government's enactment of the emergency legislative decree, which ruled on the disputed issue of adjustment of the supplementary part of the allowance, had infringed the principle of the rule of law and the applicants' right to a fair hearing, had imposed "an abnormal and excessive burden" on them and, lastly, had disproportionately infringed their property rights.

Dhahbi v. Italy

08.04.2014

The case concerned the inability of an immigrant worker of Tunisian origin to obtain payment from the Italian public authorities of a family allowance under the association agreement between the European Union (EU) and Tunisia (Euro-Mediterranean Agreement).

Azienda Agricola Silverfunghi S.A.S. and Others v. Italy

24.06.2014

The case concerned proceedings before the Italian courts brought by a number of Italian agricultural companies based on their possible entitlement to a two-fold reduction of social security contributions. Pending these proceedings the Italian legislator passed a new retrospective law which determined that their benefits would be calculated alternatively, and not cumulatively.

Lorefice v. Italy

29.06.2017

The case concerned Mr Lorefice's complaint concerning the fairness of criminal proceedings which had resulted in his conviction by a court of appeal.

general measures necessary to comply with the Court's judgments, but also induces the respondent State to resolve large numbers of individual cases arising from the same structural problem at domestic level, thus reinforcing the principle of subsidiarity which underpins the Convention system.

Felloni v. Italy

06.02.2020

The case concerned criminal proceedings which led to Mr Felloni's conviction for driving while unfit through drink. Mr Felloni alleged that his prison sentence was the result of the retrospective application of harsher criminal legislation. In particular, he complained that he had not been granted the benefit of mitigating circumstances, in accordance with the law in force at the time of the facts and subsequently amended. He also complained about a lack of reasoning in the judgment of the Court of Cassation before which he had raised this defence.

Violation of Article 6 § 1

No violation of Article 6 § 1

Trevisanato v. Italy

15.09.2016

The case concerned the inadmissibility of an appeal to the Court of Cassation for failure to formulate a point of law (quesito di diritto) in a satisfactory and appropriate manner.

Right to a fair hearing within a reasonable time

Grande Stevens and Others v. Italy

04.03.2014

The case concerned the applicants' appeal against the administrative penalty imposed on them by the Italian Companies and Stock Exchange Commission (hereafter "Consob"²) and the criminal proceedings to which they are currently subject after having been accused of market manipulation in the context of a financial operation involving the car manufacturer FIAT.

Violation of Article 6 § 1

No violation of Article 6 § 3 \(a\) \(right to be informed promptly of the accusation\) and \(c\) \(right to the assistance of a lawyer\) in respect of Mr Grande Stevens

No violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 \(protection of property\)

Violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 7 \(right not to be tried or punished twice\)

² "Consob" is a Commission charged, in particular, with protecting investors and ensuring the transparency and development of the stock markets.

The Court also held that the respondent State was to ensure that the new criminal proceedings brought against the applicants, in violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 7, which, according to the most recent information received, were still pending in respect of Mr Gabietti and Mr Grande Stevens, were closed as rapidly as possible.

Cafagna v. Italy

12.10.2017

The case concerned the applicant's conviction on the basis of a statement made by an individual who claimed to have been assaulted by him but who did not give evidence at the hearing.

Violation of Article 6 § 1

Violation of Article 6 § 3 \(d\) \(right to examine witnesses\)

Cipolletta v. Italy

11.01.2018

The case concerned the length of "administrative liquidation" proceedings.

Violation of Article 6 § 1

Violation of Article 13 \(right to an effective remedy\)

Right to the assistance of an interpreter

Knox v. Italy

24.01.2019

The case concerned proceedings leading to the conviction of Amanda Knox for malicious accusation. During a police interview on 6 November 2007 Ms Knox accused a pub manager of killing her flatmate. The man was subsequently found to be innocent and she was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for making a malicious accusation.

Excessive length of proceedings, delay in payment of "Pinto"
compensation

Simaldone v. Italy

31.03.2009

Delay in payment of compensation awarded under "Pinto Act".

Violation of Article 6 § 1 \(right to a fair hearing within a reasonable time\) and Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 \(protection of property\)

The judgment referred to a growing number of applications concerning delayed payment of "Pinto" compensation.

Gaglione and Others v. Italy

21.12.2010

Delay by the Italian authorities in paying compensation in 475 "Pinto" applications (applications lodged to complain of the length of civil proceedings) – a delay of at least 19 months in 65% of the applications.

Violation of Article 6 § 1 (enforcement of judicial decisions within a reasonable time); violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property)

The Court observed a widespread problem relating to the enforcement of Pinto decisions in Italy (at 7 December 2010, more than 3,900 applications concerning, among other things, delays in paying compensation under the Pinto Act were pending before the Court). It found that general measures were required to remedy malfunctioning of "Pinto" applications.

It disagreed with the assertion that the applicants had not suffered a significant disadvantage and dismissed for the first time a request for application of the new admissibility criterion introduced by Protocol No. 14 (no significant disadvantage).

Cases dealing with Article 7 (no punishment without law)

Sud fondi Srl and Others v. Italy

20.01.2009

Court-ordered confiscation of property following illegal development on a protected site ("Punta Perrotta"), although the Court of Cassation, in the criminal proceedings, had found the landowners and their representatives to have committed an "inevitable and excusable error".

Violation of Article 7

Contrada v. Italy \(no. 3\)

14.04.2015

The case concerned the issue of whether the actions for which the applicant was convicted and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment constituted a criminal offence at the time when they were committed.

Violation of Article 7

The Court held that the offence of "aiding and abetting a mafia-type organisation from the outside" had resulted from a development in the case-law which had begun toward the end of the 1980s and was consolidated in 1994, and that it was not therefore sufficiently clear and foreseeable for Mr Contrada at the time of the events in respect of which he was charged (1979-1988).

Felloni v. Italy

06.02.2020

The case concerned criminal proceedings which led to Mr Felloni's conviction for driving while unfit through drink. Mr Felloni alleged that his prison sentence was the result of the retrospective application of harsher criminal legislation. In particular, he complained that he had not been granted the benefit of mitigating circumstances, in accordance with the law in force at the time of the facts and subsequently amended. He also complained about a lack of reasoning in the judgment of the Court of Cassation before which he had raised this defence.

"Dublin Regulation"³

Mohammed Hussein v. the Netherlands and Italy

02.04.2013

The case concerned a Somali asylum seeker who claimed in particular that she and her two young children would be subjected to ill-treatment if transferred from the Netherlands to Italy under the Dublin Regulation.

Application declared inadmissible as manifestly ill-founded.

The Court found in particular that, if returned to Italy, the future prospects of Ms Mohammed Hussein and her two children did not disclose a sufficiently real and imminent risk of hardship severe enough to fall within the scope of Article 3.

³ The "Dublin" system serves to determine which European Union (EU) Member State is responsible for examining an asylum application lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national.

The Dublin Regulation establishes the principle that only one Member State is responsible for examining an asylum application. The objective is to avoid asylum seekers from being sent from one country to another, and also to prevent abuse of the system by the submission of several applications for asylum by one person.

Sharifi and Others v. Italy and Greece

21.10.2014

The case concerned 32 Afghan nationals, two Sudanese nationals and one Eritrean national, who alleged, in particular that they had entered Italy illegally from Greece and been returned to that country immediately, with the fear of subsequent deportation to their respective countries of origin, where they faced the risk of death, torture or inhuman or degrading treatment.

The Court held, concerning four of the applicants, Reza Karimi, Yasir Zaidi, Mozamil Azimi and Najeeb Heideri (also known as Nagib Haidari), who had maintained regular contact with their lawyer in the proceedings before the Court, that there had been:

a violation by Greece of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) combined with Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment) on account of the lack of access to the asylum procedure for the above-named applicants and the risk of deportation to Afghanistan, where they were likely to be subjected to ill-treatment a violation by Italy of Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 (prohibition of collective expulsion of aliens)

a violation by Italy of Article 3, as the Italian authorities, by returning these applicants to Greece had exposed them to the risks arising from the shortcomings in that country's asylum procedure;

a violation by Italy of Article 13 combined with Article 3 of the Convention and Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 on account of the lack of access to the asylum procedure or to any other remedy in the port of Ancona

Article 2 (right to life)

Alosa and Others v. Italy and Germany

Case communicated to the Government on 3 November 2019

The case concerns the lack of enforcement of a conviction for homicide.

Following an accident at a German-owned plant in Italy, the Italian courts found the company's management guilty of involuntary manslaughter. Two of the executives, who are German nationals (Mr G.P. and Mr H.E.), were sentenced to six and nine years of detention respectively. The Italian authorities located them in Germany and issued a European arrest warrant.

According to the applicants, Germany refused to hand Mr G.P. and Mr H.E. over to the Italian authorities, but agreed to enforce the sentence passed by Italy; however, that enforcement has still not taken place. According to the applicants, Italy was 10 months late in sending information requested by the German courts following their refusal to execute the European warrant arrest. Furthermore, the applicants allege that the Italian authorities did not actively seek a solution to the problem of the lack of enforcement, whether by using political or diplomatic means, or by using legal measures, in particular infringement proceedings against Germany at the Court of Justice of the European Union.

Relying on Article 2 of the Convention, the applicants complain of the Italian and German authorities' omissions and delays in enforcing the sentence. The applicants also complain of a violation of Article 13 of the Convention as they have not had access to a court or an effective remedy to challenge the delays and omissions in the case.

Penati v. Italy (no. 44166/15)

Case communicated to the Government on 9 November 2017

The case concerns the death of Federico Shady Barakat, the applicant's son, aged eight at the time of the facts, by the hand of his father, during a protected meeting between the father and child arranged by a local health agency (ASL). The applicant relies on Article 2 of the Convention.

Article 2, Article 3, Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life), Article 10 (right to information), and Article 13 (right to an effective remedy)

Di Caprio and Others v. Italy (no. 39742/14)

Case communicated to the Government on 5 February 2019

The case concerns the depositing of dangerous waste on the land known as the Terra dei Fuochi. The applicants are associations and individuals.

The polluting of the land in question, in the region around Naples and which is known as the "Terra dei Fuochi phenomenon", has been caused by the inappropriate depositing of waste which is legal in formal terms, illegal waste, fly-tipping and other types of pollution. Furthermore, the burying of waste often affects the groundwater, which causes drinking water pollution and exposure to polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons and dioxin.

The applicants have complained under various Articles of the Convention.

Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman and/or degrading treatment) and 5 (right to liberty and security)

Cioffi v. Italy (no. 17710/15)

Case communicated au gouvernement le 21 janvier 2016

This case concerns the treatment of the applicant after a clash between protesters and the police during the Global Forum on Reinventing Government in Naples in March 2001. Mr Cioffi alleges that he was ill-treated while he was detained at Virgilio Raniero police station.

Relying on Articles 3 and 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention, the applicant complains, among other things, that the people responsible for his ill-treatment were prosecuted for offences which were barred as time-limited during the criminal proceedings, and that Italian criminal law as a whole does not guarantee adequate punishment for acts of that type. The applicant also complains of the incompatibility of his detention with Article 5 of the Convention.

Articles 3 and 7 (no punishment without law)

Dell'Utri v. Italy (no. 3800/15)

Case communicated to the Government on 16 November 2017

The application concerns, inter alia, the question of: (1) whether at the time the applicant was charged, domestic law provided a sufficiently clear and foreseeable definition of the offence of external participation in a mafia-type association (concorso esterno in associazione di stampo Mafioso) provided for by Article 416bis of the Criminal Code; (2) whether the criminal procedure was fair; (3) whether the principle of ne bis in idem was respected; and (4) whether keeping the applicant in detention is compatible with the state of his health.

Darboe and Camara v. Italy \(no. 5797/17\)

Sadio v. Italy \(no. 3571/17\), Jahid and Others v. Italy \(no. 3610/17\), and Fofana v. Italy \(no. 3963/17\)

Cases communicated to the parties in February 2017

The applicants in these cases, with the exception of Mr Sadio, who is of full age, are unaccompanied minors who have sought asylum. They were all accommodated in the Cona (Venice) reception centre for asylum-seekers, which is intended solely for adults.

In the case of Darboe and Camara v. Italy, the applicants complain that they were placed in this facility for adults although they had stated that they were minors. They allege that the procedure for determining their age was conducted in breach of national and international law.

The applicants allege that the Cona reception centre, which has a capacity of approximately 500, was home to around 1,400 people at the relevant time. The dormitory measured 360 sq. m. and accommodated 250 people. Owing to the overcrowding, the communal areas were taken up with beds. The number of toilets was inadequate for the number of people; among other things, the occupants had to form long queues outside, even in winter, in order to have a shower. There was no supervision of the distribution of food, which was frequently insufficient to meet the demand. In addition, the space set aside for eating meals was completely taken up by the serving staff.

The applicants further claim that the centre was not supervised by law-enforcement officials, and that knives and drugs were in circulation. They also allege instances of prostitution.

Relying on Article 3 of the Convention (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment), Mr Sadio complains of being exposed to inhuman and degrading treatment on account of the living conditions in the Cona reception centre.

Under Article 3 of the Convention, the applicants who are minors allege that they were subjected to inhuman and degrading treatment on account of their placement in the Cona centre until 15 January 2016.

Lastly, from the standpoint of Articles 3 and 8 of the Convention, the applicant minors complain that the competent authorities failed to take any protective measures in view of their status as unaccompanied minors.

In the case of Sadio v. Italy and two other applications, the applicants lodged a request with the Court in January 2017 asking it to apply Rule 39 of the Rules of Court in order to indicate to the Italian Government that the applicants should be transferred to a reception facility for unaccompanied minors. The Court decided to adjourn examination of the Rule 39 request pending the receipt of information from the Italian Government. In February 2017 the Court found, with regard to the applicants who were minors, that the request for interim measures had become devoid of purpose as they had been transferred to centres for unaccompanied minors. In the case of Mr Sadio, it decided not to apply the interim measure requested.

In the case of Darboe and Camara v. Italy, the applicants requested the Court to apply Rule 39 of the Rules of Court with a view to their transfer to a reception facility suitable for minors. The same month, the Court granted the applicants' request and indicated to the Government that the applicants should be transferred to appropriate facilities affording living conditions compatible with the standards of domestic and international law regarding the protection of unaccompanied minors.

In both these cases the Court decided, under Rule 41 of the Rules of Court, to give the applications priority treatment.

Articles 8 (right to private life) and 14 (prohibition of discrimination)

J.L. v. Italy (no. 5671/16)

Case communicated to the Government on 29 January 2018

In 2008 the applicant complained that she had been gang raped by six men while under the influence of alcohol. The court of first instance, finding that the applicant was at the time in a condition of physical and mental vulnerability because of the effects of alcohol, sentenced the six men for the crime of gang rape committed on a vulnerable person.

On appeal, the Florence Court of Appeal overturned the verdict and acquitted the men.

The applicant complains of having been made a victim twice in the course of the criminal proceedings against her attackers as the judges had ultimately ruled out rape because of considerations relating to her family situation, her lifestyle and her sexual habits in a manner that was devoid of any legal relevance and which had undermined her dignity and privacy.

Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 (right to free elections)

Miniscalco v. Italy (no. 55093/13)

Case communicated to the parties in August 2016

In a decision of 27 February 2013, upheld by the Consiglio di Stato on 6 February 2013, the Molise Central Bureau for Regional Elections excluded the applicant from the list of candidates for the regional elections of 24 and 25 February 2013, under Article 7 of Decree no. 235/2012, on account of a final judgment convicting the applicant, handed down prior to the entry into force of the provision in question.

Mr Miniscalco relies on Article 7 of the Convention (no punishment without law), and also on Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 (right to free elections).
